Nucleus Research recognizes FYI's business analytics cloud solution

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Parsippany, NJ, September 19, 2012— FYI Solutions is pleased to announce that Nucleus Research, a leading IT Industry Analyst that specializes in measuring the value of technology, has recognized FYI Solutions' Business Analytics Cloud Solution featuring IBM Cognos Express in a recent research publication (document M108). Download the publication at www.fyisolutions.com.

The following is the Bottom Line quote from Nucleus Research. "FYI has developed a private cloud offering for IBM Cognos Express called CX-Cloud, which allows small and mid-sized organizations to deploy Cognos Express in the cloud. Nucleus has found that this approach can potentially reduce hardware and support costs by over $100,000 for a 100 user deployment, making this product a necessary consideration for mid-sized organizations considering a Cognos analytics deployment."

Nucleus Research is a leading IT Industry Analyst that follows IBM closely as well as all other leading Business Analytics vendors. www.NucleusResearch.com
